

Postgraduate Research Student Support Scheme (PRSSS) Guidelines

Ref: KK0818

1. Overview

The Postgraduate Research Student Support Scheme (PRSSS) is open to all enrolled ACU HDR students to support costs essential to the successful progress of research. The scheme is designed to supplement the support provided by supervisors, schools, faculties, and research institutes. PRSSS funding is not an entitlement and remains at the discretion of and subject to endorsement by the faculty and approval by the Deputy Vice-Chancellor Research.

2. Application Dates

There will be one round of applications per research term in every calendar year – four in total. The closing date for applications for PRSSS funding will be the census date for each term.

Please refer to Study Period 20XX, 2.3 Research Higher Degree Terms, via the Academic Calendar for census dates.

Late applications or amendments to applications already submitted will not be accepted.

3. Funding

The maximum amount of research support that may be allocated to a HDR student across his/her candidature is $5,000 for a doctoral student and $3,000 for a master-by-research student.

3.1 Funding Categories

3.1.1 Conference Expenses

A student may be eligible for funding if he or she authors and presents, or authors and is accepted to present, a paper related to his or her research. Conference support of this kind is not normally available until the final year of candidature.

Conference attendance without presenting a paper, or to present a paper that the student has not authored, will not be supported.

3.1.2 Field expenses

A student may be able to obtain funding for field expenses related to his or research. Funding cannot be used for infrastructure costs normally covered by the school or research institute.

3.1.3 Specialist expenses

A student can obtain funding for use of specialist services, a visit to use specialist facilities, or learning specialist technique(s). Expenses must be directly related to the research being undertaken and cover costs for support not provided by the school or research institute.

3.1.4 Computer/Equipment expenses

A student can obtain funding for essential equipment that is outside the normal infrastructure provided by the school or research institute.

3.1.5 Thesis production expenses

A student can apply for funding for thesis production expenses provided he or she will submit in the same calendar year and does not have access to production funding, including printing costs, via a university scholarship.
